

NMF PRIMARY CARE LEADERSHIP PROGRAM

About the Program

Faced with an increasing shortage of primary healthcare professionals in the United States, the NMF Primary Care Leadership Program (PCLP) develops future leaders in the field, improving access for the nation's most underserved communities. For six weeks each summer, PCLP Scholars experience the challenges and rewards of primary care in community health centers (CHCs) across the nation through leadership training, service-learning projects, and healthcare delivery.

Eligibility & Awards

PCLP candidates are students from underrepresented minority groups and/or socioeconomically disadvantaged backgrounds. Applicants must be enrolled in one of the following accredited training programs, in the United States:

- Medicine (1st and 2nd year students)
- Nursing (Master's and Doctoral students)
- Physician Assistant (Master's and Doctoral students)

PCLP Scholars will each receive a $5,000 scholarship stipend, which is expected to cover travel, living, and lodging expenses during the program.

This program has further strengthened my desire to be a leader in primary care, with an emphasis on taking care of those who are the most vulnerable.
